

We believe in the relentless pursuit of excellence. Our vision is to be the Regional Leader in providing a high quality, sustainable Healthcare Home in a teaching, growing environment.

Who We Are

Columbia Valley Community Health (CVCH) is a dynamic, progressive community health center with locations in Wenatchee, East Wenatchee and Chelan. CVCH is a modern, well-equipped community health center, with fully integrated EMR, and our services include Medical, Dental and Behavioral Health. We are early adopters of the Patient-Centered Medical Home Model and are accredited by The Joint Commission.

History

On January 11, 1972, a group of twenty-four concerned citizens gathered in a local restaurant with the common desire to find a way to alleviate the poor health conditions of people living in our service area. They voted to create a nonprofit organization known as the North Central Washington Migrant Health Project to address these health care needs.

On April 1, 1972, they received their first grant of $125,000 to serve Grant, Okanogan, Chelan, and Douglas counties. Early services included screenings by nurses in outreach vans in the orchards and along the roads. Night clinics were held in borrowed churches and offices by contracting with local physicians.

In the ensuing years, Okanogan and Grant counties developed their own Community Health Centers. The organization's name changed to Columbia Valley Community Health, and services were expanded to include full-time providers and professional facilities. In addition to the Medical program, the organization added Dental, Women, Infants and Children (WIC) and comprehensive maternity support services.

In the summer of 1998, CVCH moved to 600 Orondo Avenue where additional space allowed for expansion of services to include on site Pharmacy, Radiology, and Chronic Disease Management. In the summer 2001, the Board of Directors voted to expand CVCH clinic services to the Chelan-Manson community which was initiated in October 2001, then moved to a new site at 317 East Johnson Avenue in August 2002. In 2012 we filled a new 15,000 sq. ft. clinic addition with 12 new medical exam rooms and eight state-of-the-art, completely digital dental operatories. We also opened a new Express Care Clinic in East Wenatchee to provide the residents of Douglas County access to affordable services.

"I have never gone anywhere where everything was so integrated, including the dentist and hygienist. It's been a very helpful experience to me, having everything so handy. I have found the integrated services close knit and it's given me a sense of belonging and in turn a sense of security."

“As a new graduate Physician Assistant, one of the things that originally attracted me to CVCH was the autonomy and respect given mid-level providers. Tim Seaman, PA, and Andrea Hoey, ARNP have been with CVCH almost since the very beginning, and this has helped the organization develop a culture where mid-levels are afforded maximum autonomy and respect for their experience.”

Casey Wyatt, PA-C

Wenatchee is GREEN

Hydropower is one of our region's great resources and the Columbia River is at the core of life in the Wenatchee Valley. The Chelan County Public Utility District harnesses the river's power and produces the renewable hydro energy that sustains modern life. As they explore alternatives such as solar and wind, the PUD remains committed to prudent energy and water conservation programs.

Joint Commission Certified

What began over 40 years ago as a migrant health center, operating out of churches, borrowed offices and vans, is now a pace-setting industry leader. In April 2012, CVCH was the first outpatient clinic in the Pacific Northwest to receive Primary Care Medical Home accreditation from the Joint Commission.

Why is this important? Because it validates that what we have done, and continue to do, is of the highest quality and is setting standards within the healthcare industry.

A “medical home” is a model of care whereby a team of health professionals work together to provide comprehensive, coordinated and accessible patient-centered care. Caring about our patients is the most important job of a medical home. Our primary product is not healthcare; it is relationship building.
